

SUTTONS SEEDS

In the 1840s Martin Sutton turned his Father's corn trading business into a household name by realising he could post catalogues to customers and deliver seeds by rail.

Suttons seeds established itself as one of the world's first mail order catalogues.

Seeds were shipped around the world including to the Taj Mahal.